Mouth-watering dining options | Arts & Cultural attractions | Plus nearby neighborhoods

Center City

Dilworth

Charlotte's first trolley neighborhood and vision of entrepreneur Edward Dilworth Latta, Dilworth with proximity to Center City derives its distinct charm from curving lanes of early twentieth-century bungalows and mansions. Summon the sommelier for the extensive wine list at Bonterra Dining and Wine Room, set inside a 110-year-old former church, or opt for casual but satisfying fare at Dilworth Neighborhood Bar & Grill.

Don't Miss: Lebowski's Neighborhood Grill

▶ Approximately 8 minutes from the Charlotte Convention Center

Elizabeth

A neighbor to Myers Park, block after block of Craftsman-style bungalows would make Frank Lloyd Wright proud. A refurbished Elizabeth Avenue lays claim to an array of restaurants and storefronts from the elegant Italian Carpe Diem to the seasonally inspired Fig Tree.

Don't Miss: Nothing but Noodles and Kennedy's

▶ Approximately 6 minutes from the Charlotte Convention Center

Midtown

Boasting the best skyline view in town, the Metropolitan takes full advantage with palatial windows, generous patios and seasonal music concerts. Dressler's delivers on taste and presentation, while Vivace's rustic Italian classics are complemented by a picture-perfect skyline view. The Little Sugar Creek Greenway invites after-dinner strolls or serious workouts.

Don't Miss: Hickory Tavern and Melting Pot

▶ Approximately 2 minutes from the Charlotte Convention Center

Charlotte's got a lot.

NoDa

A former mill village, the area along North Davidson Street drew young artists to repurpose the area by setting up an arts district about 25 years ago. A walkable thoroughfare encourages visitors to choose from casual spots like Crepe Cellar and Growler's Pourhouse, a Draft Magazine pick for "Best Beer Bar." Close by, Amelie's French Bakery delights with signature salted caramel brownies.

Don't Miss: Heist Brewery

▶ Approximately 10 minutes from the Charlotte Convention Center

Plaza-Midwood

Americana with a twist. A drive along The Plaza charms passersby with colorful cottages and cozy front porches with rockers. Nearby, you can rock the night in diners or with divas in an eclectic mix of music venues for any orientation. An upscale standout in this neighborhood, Bistro LaBon dishes out French tastes, while Something Classic's homemade comfort classics never disappoint.

Don't Miss: The Diamond

▶ Approximately 13 minutes from the Charlotte Convention Center

South End

Just south of Center City and easily accessible by light rail, South End hums with restaurants, art galleries, special events and pubs. The lines never stop at Price's Chicken Coop where locals covet warm fried chicken. Savor bangers or kick back a pint at Big Ben's Pub or at one of the other nearby pubs. Or for true Carolina flavors, try local BBQ at Mac's Speed Shop where motorcycles and Mercedes mingle in the parking lot.

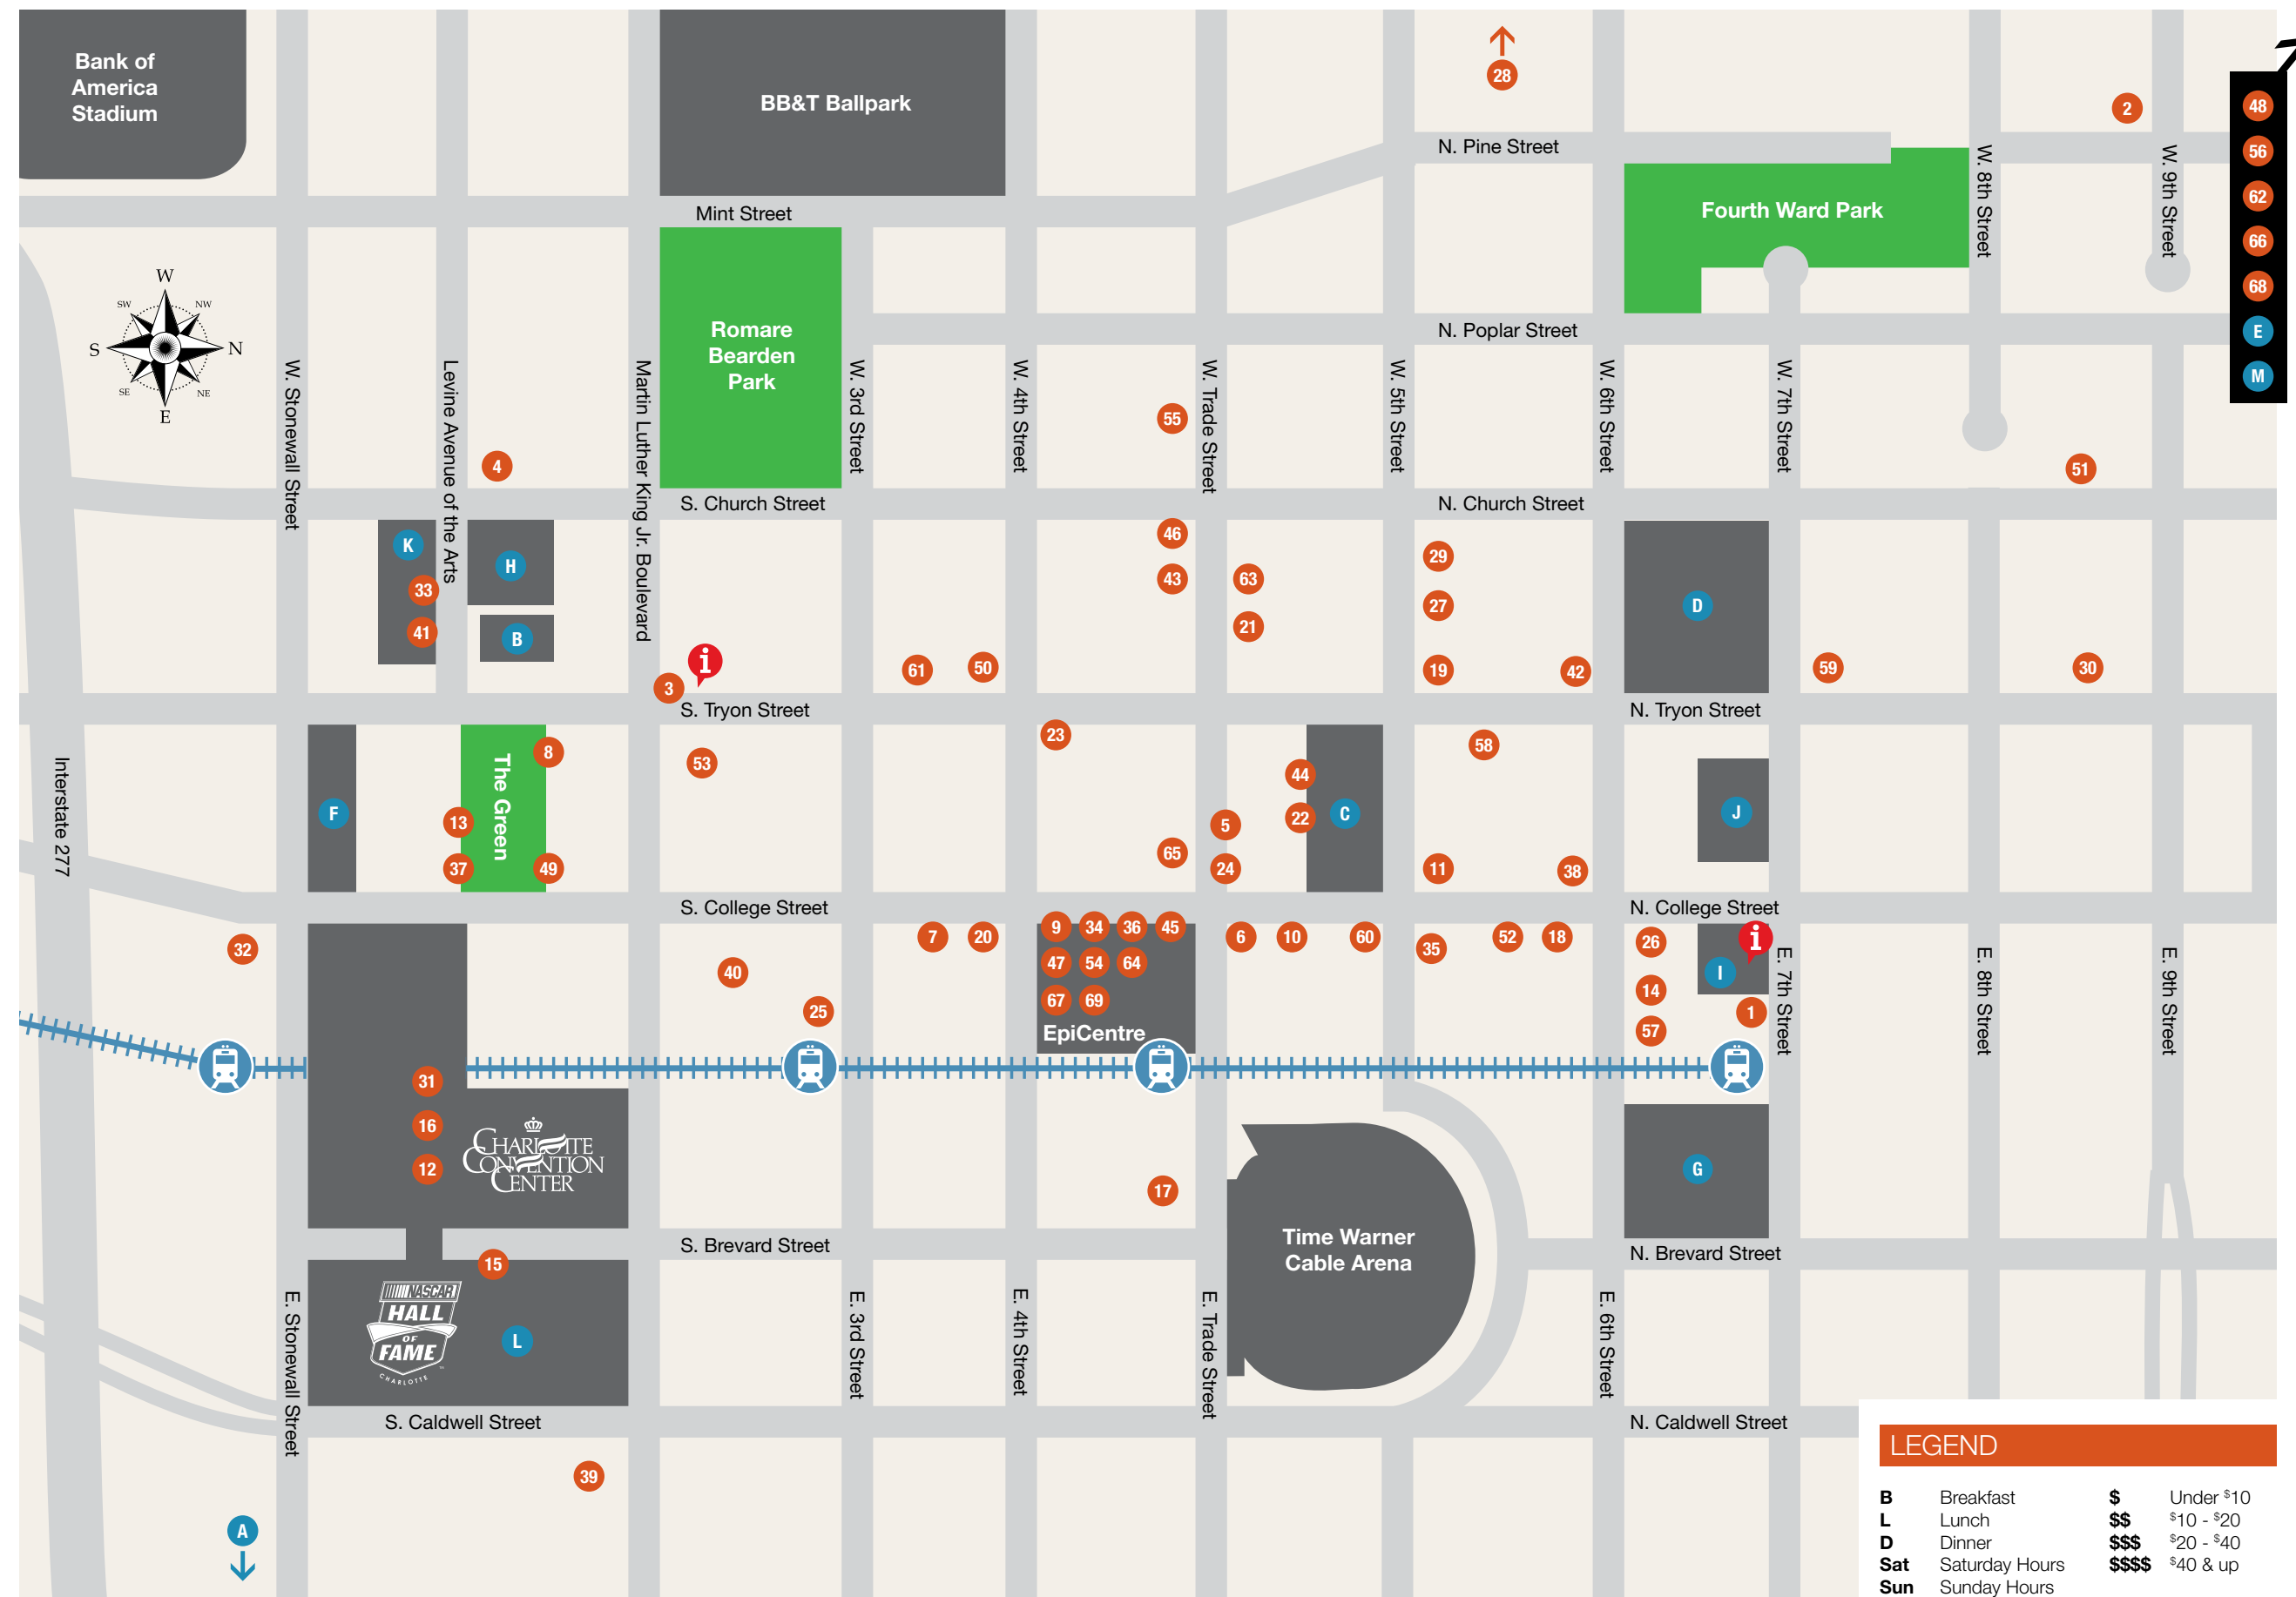

Don't Miss: Sullivan's Steakhouse

▶ Approximately 4 minutes from the Charlotte Convention Center
